

Two arrested for impersonating Navy officers, cheating women on Instagram

New Delhi | Ew News

Two fraudsters were arrested for posing as Navy officers, doctors and engineers in foreign countries and cheating women on social media site Instagram, a police officer said on Saturday. With the arrest of the duo identified as Sunder Singh (22), a resident of Nilothi Extension, West Delhi and Harmony Samuel (27), a Nigerian national, the police claimed to have solved 10 cases of cheating in which women were duped of lakhs of rupees. According to police, an FIR was registered on October 25, in which the complainant alleged that she received a message from an unknown Instagram ID "marino ingegnere" for friendship who introduced himself as a Sea Engineer from Norway. Subsequently, the individual proposed marriage to the complainant and mentioned their intention to send gifts and Euros from Norway. To receive these gifts/parcels, the complainant was asked to cover the custom clearance charges. Additionally, the alleged person requested the complainant to provide funds for his airfare to India. In total, the complainant transferred an approximate sum of Rs 11.39,000 to various accounts specified by the fraudster," said Deputy Commissioner of Police (Dwarka), M Harsha Vardhan. During the investigation, the authorities obtained information regarding the beneficiary's bank account. "Through technical surveillance and a detailed analysis of the account information, the suspect was traced to Chandra Vihar. The person involved in the fraud, identified as Sunder Singh, was arrested for receiving the ill-gotten money in his bank account," said the DCP. Upon interrogation, Singh revealed that he operated a grocery store and received the fraudulent funds in his accounts at the behest of a Nigerian national, who acted as a middleman on a commission basis. "Singh retained a portion of the cheated amount, approximately 10 per cent, as his commission, and then provided the remaining funds to the co-accused Nigerian national in cash," said the DCP. A strategic operation was subsequently set up in the vicinity of Chandra Vihar near Singh's grocery store, leading to the apprehension of the co-accused Nigerian national. Identified as Harmony Samuel, he was found to possess images portraying himself as a Sea engineer on his mobile phone," said the DCP. The investigation revealed that the Nigerian accused person operated multiple fake Instagram accounts, impersonating foreigners such as Navy Officers, Doctors, Engineers, and others from various foreign countries. "Using these accounts, he engaged in regular conversations with girls and women, gradually gaining their trust and even proposing marriage. The fraudsters sent fictitious gifts and parcels to Indian airports, prompting the victims to cover custom clearance charges through different bank accounts, ultimately deceiving innocent girls and women in this manner," said the DCP.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Congress fought British, we won't be threatened: Kharage

New Delhi, Congress President Mallikarjun Kharage on Saturday slammed the BJP government accusing it of misusing central agencies and said that the party fought against British and made them leave India. In a post on X, Kharage said, "It is work of Modi government to misuse ED, CBI and Income Tax during elections and threaten Congress." "But the Congress which fought against British and made them to leave India, then what is Modi and Shah," Kharage added. His remarks came after the ED on Friday in a statement said that the Enforcement Directorate (ED) claimed that a forensic analysis and a statement made by a "cash courier" had led to "startling allegations" that the promoters of the Mahadev betting app paid about Rs 508 crore to the Chhattisgarh Chief Minister so far, and that "these are subject matter of investigation." The ED also claimed that it had recovered Rs 5.39 crore cash from the courier, whom it identified as Asim Das. A charge sheet was recently filed by the ED in the Mahadev app case where a total of 14 accused were named including main promoters Sourabh Chandrakar and Ravi Uppal. Polling for 90 member assembly in Chhattisgarh is scheduled on November 7 and 17 in two phases and counting of votes will end December 3.

One dead as DTC bus rams into car, two-wheelers in Delhi

New Delhi, A 30-year-old man died while another sustained injuries after a DTC bus lost control and hit a car and some two wheelers in Delhi's Rohini area on Saturday, an officer said. The videos of the incident were also doing the rounds on social media. In one video, a bus was observed dragging a car, an e-rickshaw, and a bike that it had collided with. The bus continued moving until it finally came to a stop, during which it also crashed into several scooters parked near the sidewalk. A separate video of the same incident captured bystanders fleeing for safety as the bus collided with the bicycles and scooters. Startled onlookers, their hands raised above their heads in disbelief, hurried to the scene to assess the condition of those who had been struck by the bus. According to police, a PCR call regarding an accident near Mother Divine School, Rohini was received at South Rohini police station on Saturday. Upon reaching the spot, police came to know that the injured person had been shifted to Baba Saheb Ambedkar Hospital where one person, aged about 30 years, was declared brought dead. One more injured person in the accident is under treatment.

Gopal Rai writes to Bhupendra Yadav for banning polluting vehicles from neighbouring states

New Delhi, Delhi Environment Minister Gopal Rai has urgently penned a letter to Union Minister Bhupendra Yadav, calling for a ban on the entry of "polluting vehicles" into the National Capital Region (NCR) due to the alarming increase in Air Quality Index (AQI) levels. In addition, he has requested for organising a meeting with the environment ministers of neighbouring states to address this pressing concern. As per the statutory direction issued by CAQM on 19.10.2023.

New Age tech can enable India achieve Net Zero goal, curb air pollution

New Delhi | Ew News

Reeling under frequent bouts of air pollution that may shorten an average Indian's life expectancy by 5.3 years, there are New Age technologies that can be deployed in India to achieve the goal of 'Net Zero', demonstrating that the process of economic growth "need not come at the cost of our environment or indeed the health of our citizens". According to Chandra Bhushan, one of India's foremost environment and climate change experts, technologies like electric vehicles (EVs), batteries, photovoltaic cells and hydrogen fuel, while reducing the dependence on fossil fuel energy, can help the country achieve decarbonisation and fight the menace of air pollution. In an article written on the website of the Heinrich Boell Foundation, a German foundation and part of the green political movement, he emphasised that the barrier is neither technical nor cost, but policy priorities. "But these policy challenges are a cause for action, not panic. No one expects us to reach Net Zero tomorrow. But the right policies need to be implemented now so that they can take full effect over 30 years," he wrote. The fossil fuel economy has delivered many benefits, including national development. "Decarbonisation will bring some costs, especially for those who are dependent on fossil fuels for jobs and growth and those currently able to access cheap energy," said Bhushan. But there has been evidence for a while that this development is not well distributed and directed. "For instance, the externalities of fossil fuel energy are disproportionately borne by the most vulnerable. Communities around coal mines and power plants are exposed to horrifying levels of air pollution, which in turn cause lung and heart disease," he noted. More Indians own cars today than 50 years ago, but our city air has become unbreathable. A recent Lancet-published study puts a shocking number on "premature deaths and morbidity attributable to air pollution" -- $36.8 billion in economic losses to India (or 1.4 per cent of GDP) in 2019 alone. To fulfil the obligations under the Paris

Agreement, in November 2021 at the 26th Conference of Parties (COP26) in Glasgow, Prime Minister Narendra Modi pledged that India would reach net zero emissions by 2070 and meet 50 per cent of its electricity requirements from renewable sources by the year 2030. This is possible with the right and timely use of available technologies. "The past two decades have seen a revolution in renewable energy technologies -- solar costs have fallen 90 per cent over the past decade. Building new solar power in India is now cheaper than building a new coal plant, and is quickly becoming cheaper than running existing coal plants," said Bhushan. While renewable energy needs electricity storage to be as reliable as coal power, Moody's projects that wind and solar, including storage cost, will be competitive with coal in India in 2025. Another turning point is the battery/storage revolution coming.

Delhi HC imposes fine on Centre for 'failing' to release pension to freedom fighter

New Delhi | Ew News

The Delhi High Court has imposed a cost of Rs 20,000 on the Union Government for its "lackadaisical approach" and "failure" to provide the Swatantra Saimit Samman Pension to a 96-year-old freedom fighter who actively participated in the country's struggle for independence. Justice Subramonium Prasad expressed strong disapproval for the Central Government's "inaction", which he deemed an insult to the freedom fighter, Uttam Lal Singh. Singh was declared a proclaimed offender, and his land could have been attached during the proceedings initiated by the then British Government. The court directed the Union Government to release the pension to the freedom fighter within 12 weeks, along with interest at a rate of 6 per cent per annum from August 1, 1980, until the date of payment. In his order, Justice Prasad stated: "For the lackadaisical approach of the Union of India, this Court deems it fit to impose costs of Rs 20,000 on the Union of India. Let the Costs be paid to the Petitioner within 6 weeks from today." The Bihar Government had recommended Singh's case, but the original documents sent by the state were reportedly lost by the Central Government. Last year, the Bihar Government once again verified Singh's documents. The court observed that since the State of Bihar had already recommended Singh's name for the pension and the District Magistrate had verified his name the previous year, there was no reason why the freedom fighter was not granted the benefit earlier. Justice Prasad expressed his dismay at the treatment meted out to freedom fighters and the insensitivity shown by the Union government towards those who had fought for the country's independence. He noted that the very spirit of the Pension Scheme for freedom fighters was being defeated.

SC sets aside 'strange' MP HC order asking police to give opportunity to accused before filing of charge sheet

New Delhi, Ew News

The Supreme Court has set aside an order passed by the Madhya Pradesh High Court which had asked an Investigating Officer to give an opportunity to the accused to explain the material collected against him during the investigation before submission of the charge sheet to the Magistrate. Bench of Justices Abhay S. Oka and Pankaj Mithal held that such an approach adopted by the High Court is "very strange and contrary to law". The bench said that the accused application seeking quashing of criminal proceedings has not been considered on merits by the High Court and therefore, directed restoration of the plea filed under 482 CrPC (Code of Criminal Procedure). "We direct the Registrar (Judicial) of the Madhya Pradesh High Court to list the restored petition before the roster Bench on 8th December, 2023 in the morning. The parties shall appear before the roster Bench on that day," it ordered. Further, the top court extended the interim protection granted against any coercive action till January 8, 2024. It added that a liberty is given to the accused to apply before the High Court for continuation of interim relief in the event the remanded case is not decided till January 8 next year. "The High Court will decide the case of the petitioner on merits without being influenced by the interim relief granted by this Court. All contentions are left open, to be considered by the High Court," clarified the Supreme Court.

BJP scared of AAP: Atishi on case against Gujarat MLA

New Delhi, Ew News

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) on Saturday accused the BJP of filing a false case against Gujarat's party MLA Charit Vasava from the Devgad Baria Assembly constituency and said that the saffron party is scared of it. "The BJP in Gujarat, which has been in power for years, is trying to suppress the strong voice of the tribal community, who is also the son of Gujarat. The false case against Vasava, a popular tribal leader, is an attempt to stop him from becoming the voice of the community," Delhi Minister Atishi said while addressing a press conference at the party headquarters here. She said that the BJP knows that leaders like Vasava are standing with AAP in the Lok Sabha elections, which is why they have filed a false case against him to create pressure. "The false case against Vasava in the Lok Sabha elections is a conspiracy by the BJP to prevent him from promoting AAP," she said. She said that in front of all the journalists, I had made a prediction, I had said that in the coming days, every leader, legislator, minister, and MP of the AAP would be falsely implicated. "I had predicted that the BJP will put its agencies behind us, file false cases, conduct raids, and send us to jail. And in just the past two days, the truth of this prediction has come true," she said. She said that just two days back, a 20-hour raid was conducted at the residence of Delhi's Minister Raj Kumar Anand in an 18-year-old case. "Yesterday, a similar false case was filed against Vasava. Vasava is not only an AAP MLA but also a beloved leader of Gujarat's tribal community.

Due to his popularity, the Gujarat government, led by the BJP, filed a false FIR against him and also arrested his wife," she said. She said that Vasava is an MLA from a tribal area. "The Forest Department had cut the crops of an tribal farmer in the region. As an MLA, Vasava raised the issue and demanded compensation for the farmer the Forest Department filed a false FIR against him. Additionally, Vasava's wife, who was neither involved in the matter nor present at the scene, was also falsely charged and arrested, all to create pressure Atishi said.
